Second Half Drive By Charlevoix Dumps Grayling By 65-59 Score

Junior Varsity Racks Up First Victory

The Harbor Springs Rams, winless in two conference frays thus far, move into the Grayling High gym this Friday night for the wind-up game prior to the holidays. The Vikings are given a good chance to mark up their second victory in conference play against one defeat.

Other conference action this coming Friday will find Charlevoix at East Jordan where the conference co-leaders should stay in the win column. Pellston at Gaylord, where it appears the Blue Devils will take their third conference loss and Boyne City will be at Mancelona with the outcome a tossup.

Friday night on the local hardwood floor the Charlevoix Raiders in a strong second half effort defeated Grayling 65 to 59 in a hard fought, close contest. Grayling held a lead throughout the game until the last quarter when they slipped behind by one point. At one time in the first period they held a 17 point spread 20 to 3. The first quarter ended with the Vikings out in front 22 to 11. The score at intermission was Grayling 20, Charlevoix 26.

The lead switched several times in the final period until the Raiders hit on eight straight foul shots to move them into a lead that they never relinquished. Grayling, who had started in a man to man defense, shifted to a zone early in the fourth quarter to plug a couple of defensive holes. Later as they fell behind, the Vikings went into a zone press and in a few minutes had rallied to trail by a single point. However, poor conditioning began to show as the Grayling players ran out of gas and Charlevoix broke in for two quick baskets to put the game on ice.

Strong defensive play helped keep Charlevoix in the game during the first half as Judy Johnson, Karen and Sharon Lodge controlled the boards and showed good ball handling. Carol Manor was high scorer with 13 points and Connie Weaver played an excellent floor game for the Eagles.

In Friday night's game, Ellsworth took the opener 48-39. Fred Allen was high scorer with 12 points. Fredrick won the varsity game 40-31. Fredrick led at the half 19-9 and increased the lead to as much as 15 points during the third quarter. In the final quarter Ellsworth fought back to within four points with two minutes to go. Ron Mertens and Jack Smith scored 15 and 13 points respectively to lead the Eagle scoring. Mitch Thompson was a big help on the boards, gathering in 12 rebounds and held Elzinga the big Ellsworth center to 10 points.

In this weeks games the girls and junior high will play Bellaire at Frederic Wednesday night and the varsity and reserves are at Bellaire Friday night.

Eagles Defeat Ellsworth 40-31

Frederic and Ellsworth met for four basketball games last week, and each school came out with two victories.

Ellsworth won the first game, 40-31, Friday night. The varsity while the girls salvaged the nightcap with a 28-27 win. The first quarter ended with neither team chalking up a point, but the succeeding three quarters gave the spectators plenty of excitement. Not more than six points separated the two teams throughout the game.

Strong defensive play helped keep Frederic in the game during the first half as Judy Johnson, Karen and Sharon Lodge controlled the boards and showed good ball handling. Carol Manor was high scorer with 13 points and Connie Weaver played an excellent floor game for the Eagles.

Lobbying Activities Draws Fire From Gov. G. Mennen Williams

ed and regulated by government.

Big business took the brunt of complaints. Gov. G. Mennen Williams blamed "the intervention of lobbyists for a few business interests" for Michigan's tax deadlock. He said they blocked a settlement months ago in the Senate.

Although acknowledging they evaluated carefully information supplied by lobbyists, Republican tax experts said nobody dictated their votes.

A scare was thrown into the ranks of some cloakroom cloisters when Secretary of State James M. Here said "it has come to our attention" that some of those producing "objectionable" on the sidelines of the tax battle were not formally registered.

He reminded that failure of a legislative agent to register is a felony, carrying a maximum fine of $1,000 and a one-year jail sentence.

Under law, legislative agents must pay a $5 registration fee and keep a record of expenditures.

Protests were heard about the lobbying on key measures other than tax legislation.

Outraged opponents of passage of bills on horse racing, small loans, and reauthorized license plates complained of lobby tactics.

But the protests were tame compared to the charges that set off the grand jury investigation of wholesale bribery in the forties.

REPEAL of a controversial law requiring reauthorized license plates has been proposed and may be passed before the law goes into effect.

The law as written would not go into effect until 90 days after the 1959 Legislature adjourns. As the tax deadlock kept lawmakers in session longer than expected, the reauthorized plate law was not in effect as planned when license tags went on sale Nov. 1. Motorists who buy their tags before the bill goes into effect will not have to pay the 35-cent fee designed to build a fund to buy the reauthorized material.

But the delay issue was not the main factor in the move for repeal. There were complaints of "rigging" and "junks" against the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co., which produced reauthorized material. And some state officials were less than enthusiastic about the safety value of reauthorization.

The Minnesota firm complained "false impressions" were circulated in Lansing along with the complaints about lobbying on the reauthorized plate bill.

It denied writing specifications for the bill, and said there was no truth to reports that Michigan legislators were wined, dined and otherwise entertained by the company in St. Paul.

POVERTY may be the rule in Michigan's general fund but there is wealth elsewhere in this state plagued by recurrent financial troubles.

A Michigan State University publication reports Michigan has more millionaires than Texas in fact more of them than all but four states.

The report came out about the same time the State Administrative board emptied the state's general fund by releasing available money for schools, payrolls and welfare.

Another example to counter reports that Michigan is a pauper state came from figures released by Business Week magazine.

The publication showed Michigan's personal income increase in September of this year when compared to last year was the third largest in the nation.

Michigan's increase was 11.4 per cent. Florida has 13.5 per cent and Alaska 12.7 per cent.

Government has been getting a big bite of this income.

The MSU report said Michigan residents in almost all income brackets pay a higher effective rate of taxes than do Americans generally.

The Jet Age Contribution . . .

A great amount of attention is being given to the applications and potentialities of the newly-dawned jet age of international air travel. As of the moment, a comparatively small number of these planes are in service. But more are joining the fleets in swift sequence, and, in time, they will become virtually universal on the long flights. So, a description of what jet flying is like, from the passenger viewpoint, written by Roderick A. Lull of the Industrial News Review, may be of some interest.

"This jet flight was from San Francisco to London a Boeing 707, operated by Pan American World Airways. Time of journey — about 11 hours. The initial impression on boarding is of the plane's size — up to 130 passengers, depending on seat arrangement, can be carried. By comparison, even the biggest of conventional planes — a DC-7, for instance — seems on the small side. The second is an appreciation of the care with which the plane's interior has been planned, in order to achieve two goals — maximum utilization of the space available, and maximum comfort and convenience for the traveler.

"This writer traveled economy class, for the obvious reason — he wanted to spend as little as possible on transportation, and have as much as possible for spending abroad. The differences between economy, and the more expensive classes are two — less elaborate meals and the amount of space allotted. In economy, there are three seats on each side of a center aisle. There's little room to spare, but still it is not uncomfortably crowded. The seats, of the tilt-back type, are supremely comfortable, and in flight you can always take a turn up and down the aisle to stretch the legs.

"The take-off involves a much longer run on the ground than with piston planes. And the angle of ascent is noticeably steeper — jets are vast gulpers of their kerosene fuel at low altitudes, and are brought to cruising height without delay. That height, in this instance, was 33,000 feet most of the way. Speed, about 550 MPH.

"The flying qualities of the big jets, from the passenger point of view, are next to revolutionary. They are not precisely silent within the cabin — there is a subdued, rather sea-like roar, which soon goes unnoticed. The big factor is an almost complete absence of vibration, except for the extreme rear of the plane where the service facilities are located. There is no sense of motion. And there is a feeling of absolute confidence in plane, crew and operating procedures. No passenger and they ran the gamut from infants in bassinets to great-grandmothers — showed the slightest distress of any kind on the entire trip.

"This flight followed a path over Eastern Oregon, on to Medicine Hat, Canada, then on to Goose Bay, Newfoundland, where a fuel stop was made at a Canadian Royal Air Force Base. Off the plane here and into a lounge for half an hour or so. Then on to London. The flight was completely smooth. We came into London in heavy rain and mist, but the landing was flawless, with only the slightest of jars on touching the runway.

"One of the best parts of the trip was the attitude of the passengers. The atmosphere was club-like — everyone, apparently, was going abroad for fun. This, of course, is one significance of foreign travel by jet. The plane's incredible speed makes distant travel possible when time is of the essence. A person on a two week vacation, for example, loses only a day in travel on a round trip to England or Europe. And that travel, to most, is part of the fun of it.

"But, of course, the significance of the jet age goes much farther than this. Juan Trippe, president of Pan Am, has stressed over and over again what stimulated travel between the peoples of the nations can ultimately mean in terms of knowledge, understanding, the banishing of prejudices — and, it is hoped, a real and permanent peace. Individuals are pretty much the same the world over, and people who know and like each other aren't eager to fight. The people-to-people approach, indeed, may easily prove to be one of the most potent instruments for easing world tensions—whether the meetings involve chiefs of state, artists, and scientists, or vast numbers of ordinary citizens. One hopes so. In any event, the jet age is here, and it will make its full contribution to that end."

The Grayling Post 106 entertained with a delightful Christmas party at Spike's Monday night and their efforts were unsurpassed on this occasion for hosting royal hosts. After the guests had all arrived, Spike got busy on the mike with announcements of what there was on the evening's program, the first of which was a group of dances. At this time it was announced that the first dance was to be held if they danced with their key dinner with all the trimmings was served in buffet style. Large heaping plates were carried to the tables and 110 pounds of turkey were devoured by the crowd. Some of the ladies who watch their calories didn't seem to be worrying that night.

Mrs. Minnie Isenbauer became the bride, Saturday, of Mr. James Lynch of Mt. Pleasant, at a pretty ceremony which took place at 4:30 o'clock at the rectory of St. Mary's church. The Rev. Fr. James Moloney officiated and Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Callahan were the attending couple. Mr. Lynch is the proprietor of a grocery store located at Mt. Pleasant. However, Mr. and Mrs. Lynch will make their home in Grayling and have the congratulations and best wishes of many friends.

Friday night the Hanson Cafe opened their season with the traditional rivals, Gaylord, at that place. The game was played in the wives. Of course, this was met with much favor by the husbands, who made a mad rush for the opportunity to have the first dance with someone else's wife. Inter-mingled during the evening with the dance numbers were three games of Scrabble, as each guest was presented a Scrabble card on arriving. Mrs. Wilfred Laurant, William Hill and Julius Paul were winners, and prizes were baskets of fancy groceries. For take a turn new gym and was certainly far better than any played in the old gym. Although the game was lost by the score of 25-23, the team showed promise of really having something. With last year's players of May, Sorenson, Harrison, Marshall, Gothro and Dawson, combined with last year's graduating class — Borchers, Lovely, Smoek and Hanson, they have as good material for an independent team as has been seen in Grayling for a number of years.

The Helping Hands club of Maple Forest met at the home of Mrs. Christine Feldhouse last Thursday, Dec. 10th. Mrs. Earl Broadbent of Grayling spoke on the Home Economics club. Pot-luck dinner was served at noon.

been visiting at Vanderbilt for the past week. Frank Muth left Monday for Lansing, where he will visit his sister, Mrs. Claude Parker, and will also search for employment.

Michigan's first fish law was enacted in 1865. It prohibited the fouling of waters and the killing of speckled trout with any kind of net in any inland lake, river or stream.

Business places and homes are beginning to take on a festive air with holiday decorations. Complimenting Mrs. Leo Moroney, a group of ladies met at the home of Mrs. Floyd Taylor Friday evening. Games were enjoyed and a very delicious lunch served.

LAST MINUTE SHOPPING

By Charles L. Pollnitz How come we have so much trouble shopping when we nearly live off it? Skiing, ice skating, rods and guns, tobogganing and boating just to mention a few. You know the breed of people we are.
Strong rippling muscles, and only out done and out walked by the mailman. Ready to tackle a bear with our bare hands. Hey, that's us!
But speaking of bare hands, that puts me in mind of a special Christmas gift that people as a whole have really over looked. And that is gloves. It sure is too. Take a look at all the different types of gloves we have. Fur-lined gloves for driving your car; a special glove where one can stick their trigger finger out for rifle hunting, water proof gloves for working and playing in wet weather, and many, many more. Why not get a few pairs for that hunting and fishing pal of yours, and buy them to fit his needs. Be sure and get two pair of the same for ice fishing. I believe that nearly all active ice fishermen have lost more than one glove down the ice shanty hole. More than once I have laid my gloves on the shanty stove to dry and they did. As a matter of fact they not only dried, but disintegrated as well.
So don't forget those all important gloves. More than one person frost bit their fingers simply because they did not have cotton or wool lining-instead of pure leather.

Here are two articles of clothing that certainly is a must if one is going to maintain comfort and health. These are simply footwear. It is the most important part of your dress. It is a scientific fact that much of a person's aches and pains come from improper footwear. If your shoe or boots do not fit comfortably and correctly, you undoubtedly will ruin your health in some shape or form.
Many people including me, until recently, did not know that by simply tying your shoe laces to tight does result in head aches, same for the laces along the leggings of hunting trousers. Spill heels such as women wear also result in some degree of sickness.
Why shouldn't it nature did not plan for us to walk on our tip toes. So please be careful, after all, it is your health. Another fault or common ailment is caused by either the shoe itself being to tight a fit, or far to loose. If the curvature of your instep fits with that of the shoe and your toes are snug, but comfortable, then you have little to worry about.
Provided, of course, you don't wear the old comfortable shoe grit becomes to well worn. If you do such a thing it results in fallen arches and spreading. This is important during child care because the child lacks in vitamins and bones are too weak to stand the pressure of poorly distributed weight. Your feet are your foundation.

There are many reasons to choose socks in as careful a manner as you would shoes. If you are dressing for small game hunting, be sure and wear a somewhat lighter sock that you would for deer season. Perhaps two pair of cotton socks will do, unless the weather is exceptionally cold.
Deer season is quite different as far as socks are concerned. My favorite system is one pair of woolies and one pair of cotton with insulated boots. Worked real good until I hit the end of the road with an ice spud. Result? Insulated water! Made me feel kind of funny too. I was the only guy in town with a green, inner tube patch over his big toe.

Hats are another article of clothing that has much variation. There is one for every occasion. I think the most versatile hat, or cap of all is that crazy duck hunters cap.
You probably know the one I mean: A rim all around it and a felt-lined ear warmer tucked up underneath. They come in brown for small game and red for big game.

To me there is nothing nicer or more beautiful than sitting on a stump in the middle of God's country. Yep, your's truly always seems to pick the coldest and wettest stump around. Apparently someone else did too. Only they did something about it by manufacturing a water proof pillow for more comfortable stump hunting.
There is one in particular that is a real dandy. It has a zipper on the size where one can put their extra pair of gloves, tissues, and other soft materials. A real good thing for the hunter.

Another thing which is not only important, but a real life saver, is an excellent compass. I swear, there are at least twenty hunters in our gang every year and not a one including me, owns a decent compass. Get us back in the woods or swamp and the first thing you hear is, "Gee, I must of been my compass-That's why I got lost." And chances are a faulty compass will be the reason. The more you pay for one the bigger and more complicating they become. Bear Archery Company not only put out the world's best archery equipment, but one of the finest compass' I know of. And they are accurate as the person who uses it. The price is cheap compared to a night in the woods, believe me.

Shopping for Junior or Junior Miss is simple. What on earth do they want most and appreciate the least? Clothes. Take a look around the room. That jacket or sweater wasn't there a minute ago. School must be out. Oh, well, Ma'll take care of it. And yet they yell for more. In fact they want just about everything their young, tender eye surveys. But keep it simple. This year wrap your gift in love and when you hand it over, say, "There, this is especially for you."

There is a pressing need in northern Michigan for detention facilities for the care and study of children pending disposition by the juvenile courts. This was one of the conclusions reached by TOMCA at its annual meeting in Sault Ste. Marie last week. The initials stand for Top of Michigan Children's Agencies, and members are employed by private and public child caring agencies and institutions in northern Michigan.

An unknown number of children are detained in jails, the group pointed out, in violation of the law when the children are under 15 years of age, and contrary to child care principles or simple humanity for these and most other juveniles. Inadequate or haphazard arrangements for the care of the juvenile courts for care of many other children, for want of a better solution. "Our laws and facilities for care and protection of pets and other animals are better than for more counties in many respects," a spokesman for TOMCA pointed out.

The group agreed that facilities for temporary shelter care for homeless and otherwise neglected and dependent children are needed in each county. It was also agreed that the most practicable solution for care of older children, including aggressive delinquents, was for several counties to combine to provide special detention facilities, for the period until the courts could make other plans. A 1956 amendment to the law permits two or more counties to construct and operate a regional facility, it was pointed out, but such a facility has not yet been established in Michigan.

Attending the TOMCA meeting from this area were staff members from the Catholic Service Bureau, Michigan Children's Aid Society, and the Children's Division of the State Department of Social Welfare.

VIKING BASKETBALL
In deference to Coach Smith who asked that it not be used, we would like to have our boys work under the theory that they don't care who gets the points as long as the team gets them, Coach Smith added.

In other conference action last Friday night, the East Jordan team dropped Harbor Springs, 59 and Pelston defeated the Mancelona Ironmen 42 to 31.

The Viking Junior Varsity team came up with a well deserved victory as they triumphed over the Little Rayders 49 to 48. Grayling trailed 10 to 7 at the end of the first period and 27 to 24 at half time. Both teams hit for 14 points in the third period but Grayling came back with a 7 to 1 final quarter to take the game by a single point.

Shane Neal with 14 points paced the Vikings in the attack. He was ably assisted by Chris Kroll with 9, Tim Neal with 8, Jim Wakeley with 7, and Ted Carlson with 6. Wright added 4, and Tom Larvi shot a foul shot. Agnew with 18 was high for the Little Rayders with S. Martin adding 12.
